

IARPP

The International Association for Relational Psychoanalysis & Psychotherapy presents

"Psychoanalysis is a vibrant clinical process that continues to reinvent itself, finding new meanings for its methodology, as the experience and concerns of its participants change and develop."

--Stephen Mitchell Hope and Dread

IARPP 15th International Conference

Hope and Dread: Therapists and Patients in an Uncertain World

June 14th - June 17th, 2018

Conference co-Chairs:

Margaret J. Black, LCSW and Hazel Ipp, Ph.D.

Our collective distress with political events in the United States generated the focus of this conference. We will come together as an international community to share experiences and lessons learned from political and social trauma as it affects our patients and ourselves. Our plenaries will take up racism, otherness, immigration and consider the place of truth in our contemporary culture and our clinical work.
