A MESSAGE FROM THE CO-CHAIRS

Our upcoming 19th annual IARPP conference will revolve with the idea of Relational Psychoanalysis in dialogue with multiple perspectives. Relational Psychoanalysis continues to be an evolving field. Forty years ago Stephen Mitchell introduced us to his groundbreaking work on relational thinking. Drawing from British object-relational theory, interpersonal psychoanalysis and feminist theory, he offered us novel ways of thinking and functioning clinically. Further nourished by significant contributions from anthropology, sociology, philosophy, political science, infant research, attachment studies, gender studies and the neurosciences, among others, Relational Psychoanalysis continues to develop in exciting ways. As we confront the intrinsic impact of the sociopolitical on our psychic lives, how we think and work clinically has shifted to encompass the significant and inevitable meeting and recognizing the “other” both externally and internally.

At the 19th IARPP annual conference that will be held in Valencia June 15–18, 2023, we will explore how our clinical encounters are not only enriched by, but are intricately interwoven with implicit and explicit influences from an array of different areas of knowledge. Maintaining an ongoing dialogue with different disciplines that also seek to explore and understand human experience is essential.

Our clinical endeavours are ever more fraught given our current global challenges where an ongoing pandemic, war, and climate change threaten our existential and interpersonal lives dramatically. Dialogue and striving towards mutual recognition is more pressing than ever as our world right now feels more polarized in unprecedented ways.

Holding complexity, disrupting reductionism, enhancing our emotional awareness and connection – these are our tasks clinically as we aim to find our way forward together. Mindful exchanges with different ways of exploring human experience becomes indispensable in these very endeavours.

We look forward to seeing you in Valencia!

LOCATION

Valencia is not by chance that it has been chosen as the best city to live in the entire world by expatriates of more than five different nationalities. Mediterranean, authentic and with a rich history, Valencia, often called “the city of light”, is becoming one of the most sought-after destinations in Europe. With 300 days of sunshine a year and an average temperature of 17°, Valencia is a city made for enjoying the outdoor life, especially in autumn.

Its over 160 kilometres of bike lanes cover the city from end to end, allowing you to travel through the gardens that run across the city along the old river course, and get to its urban beaches, as well as the two nature reserves connected to the city. Natural pantries such as the surrounding farmland, the sea and the paddy fields of La Albufera provide locally sourced products for restaurant tables, to the delight of palates truly committed to sustainability.

All this, together with 2000 years of history that have scattered historical sites from every period across the urban landscape, contrasting with the avant-garde architecture of such spaces as the City of Arts and Sciences.

Essential places that you can not miss in Valencia

1. City Of Arts and Sciences Monuments

An impressive city that can be enjoyed both inside and out, whether by watching an opera or 3D IMAX film, or visiting the interactive museum or the largest aquarium in Europe. Click here for more information.

2. Cathedral, Miguelete and Holy Grail

The Cathedral is a beautiful mixture of Romanesque, Baroque and Gothic styles. The Holy Chalice is preserved inside the Cathedral and if you go up the 207 steps of the Miguelete tower you will be able to enjoy a 360° view of the city. Click here for more information.

3. Barrio del Carmen: A cocktail of history and leisure

Forget about maps and venture into the labyrinthine cobbled streets of this ancient quarter that flourished between the Muslim and Christian walls. Medieval buildings, palaces, frescoes, shops and restaurants you won't be able to resist. Click here for more information.

4. Albufera Natural Park

This is where the paella was invented. Just 10 km from the city. An urban oasis surrounded by paddy fields and woods: Head over to the town of El Palmar and try their traditional dishes. Click here for more information.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of the conference, participants will be able to:

1. Understand the role of Relational Psychoanalysis as an antidote that could help embracing the Other as a way forward.
2. Identify why Relational perspective provides an exploration from the therapist to achieve the best comprehension of the patient's subjectivity.
3. How Relational Psychoanalysis works with socio-political factors and how that impact us as clinicians and patients.
4. Provide the different perspectives adopted by relational thinking to understand the traumatic consequences of it and has different reflective ways to cope with them
